One of the good things about travelling is that it both dislocates and disconcerts us. The unique combination of stress, boredom and expectation can reduce us to nervous wrecks but also open us to experiencing the world afresh. Not only do we travel to see ‘new things’, but by travelling we sometimes end up seeing things anew. Even things that we thought were familiar, we can see them as if for the first time when we return home, or when we think about them from far away.

This disconcerting nature of travel is captured well in TS Eliot’s The Journey of the Magi. Of course, the Magi are not on any old journey, but are seeking the person who will fulfil ancient prophecy. But having travelled to find a king, they encounter a child in a stable. Common shepherds have arrived before these Persian gentlemen. They have to go home by another route and unwittingly leave a trail of grief and destruction behind them. On going home, they realise they do not feel at ease in their own culture; their journey has changed them.

Of course, these disconcerting elements are mixed with the beautiful and purely positive side to this wonderful feast. The universal nature of the call to salvation, which was always part of the preaching of the prophets, is expressed in the reading from Isaiah. ‘The nations come to your light, and the kings to your dawning brightness.’ The gifts they bring express the divine, regal and priestly sacrificial role of the child they encounter.

The inherent plausibility of the story is given an interesting fillip by the Roman poet Horace, writing just before the birth of Christ. In one of the most famous poems of antiquity he advises his friend not to worry about the length of his life, nor to ask the Babylonian astrologers for any predictions or readings from the stars.

Stargazing, then, was the sort of thing wise men from the East were famous for doing. Not only did their stellar cartography help them navigate the ocean of the desert, they tried also to see where time and eternity would touch and go. Was there not an ancient prophecy, spoken by a Gentile, about the star who would arise out of Jacob? Another ancient prophecy spoken in persona Christi is preserved in the Apocalypse (22:16): ‘I am the root and stock of David, the bright and morning star.’

Ironically, although pilgrimage is an integral part of Christianity, we don’t have to travel to find Christ, he has already travelled to find us. By the gift of the Spirit, the blessed Trinity dwells within us. The ocean of our soul has been sounded and charted by the God who loves and creates us. The 17th century cavalier poet John Cleveland satirised the mania for travelling to the ‘New’ world to find gold and silver, while the ‘black gold’ which was coal, could be found in plenty at home. It’s partially an attack on preferring the exotic over the domestic:

England’s a perfect world, has Indies too; Correct your maps, Newcastle is Perú.

In two simple lines, Cleveland has not only disconcerted and dislocated and superimposed opposite sides of the world, but has upturned whole world views. The birth and epiphany of the child of Bethlehem does the same to an infinitely greater degree. Correct your maps. Our life as Christians is a constant correcting of our maps.

Of course, we have Jesus Christ, revealed today as true God and Man, he who is the Way, the Truth and the Life; but often other vistas tempt us, tales of earthly paradises, but only Christ will satisfy us, if we redraw our maps and redirect our steps.

So whether we are great travellers or prefer to stay at home, we have both a clear destination, eternity; and we have the means of getting there, the indwelling of the Blessed Trinity. Even in this life, our hearts and minds can become a Bethlehem where Christ is continually born by the gift of faith. Moreover, we possess the prophetic message that is altogether reliable. You will do well to be attentive to it, as to a lamp shining in a dark place, until day dawns and the Morning Star rises in your hearts’ (2 Peter 2:19).

Roger W. Heyns Lecture Featuring Cardinal Reinhard Marx, Archbishop of Munich and Freising:
Thursday, January 15, 2015, 6:00pm, Cemex Auditorium at the Knight Management Center. Free tickets available starting on Wednesday, December 3, 10:00am at heynslecture.eventbrite.com
Cardinal Reinhard Marx, Archbishop of Munich and Freising, has emerged as one of the Roman Catholic Church’s most influential figures. He currently serves as the head of the German Bishops’ Conference and as President of the Commission of the Bishops’ Conferences in the European Union. He is a member of the Council of Cardinals, which advises Pope Francis on church governance, and was appointed head of the new Council for the Economy, designed to oversee the Vatican’s economic management.
Cardinal Marx has written and spoken widely on economic issues and the contemporary relevance of Catholic Social Teaching. His book Das Kapital: A Plea for Man (2008) echoes the economic worldview that Pope Francis put forth in Evangelii Gaudium.

Small Faith Group for St. Ignatius Spiritual Exercises:
We are starting a small faith group for St. Ignatius spiritual exercise! It consists of individual spiritual exercises and a group sharing. You will spend 30 minutes x 3 days on daily practice of contemplation and journaling, and during the group meeting we will share what we’ve heard from God. The book, The Ignatian Adventure by Kevin O’Brien, SJ will be used. If you are interested, contact Eun-Soo (eschoi@stanford.edu) immediately.

ESTEEM:
Engage your Faith as a Leader in the Catholic Church.
ESTEEM (Engaging Students to Enliven the Ecclesial Mission) is looking for new members who desire to learn what it takes to be a leader inside and outside of the Catholic Church. By focusing on our Catholic theological traditions and the example of Christ leading his disciples, ESTEEM teaches its members how to be disciples focused on leadership at both Stanford and in the real world. ESTEEM meets Tuesday nights in the Sanctuary on the third-floor of Old Union. Please contact Lourdes Alonso, lalonso@stanford.edu.

Ἐπιφάνεια — these symbols from the Greek alphabet and the word itself may not mean much to most of us, but this is the Greek word epiphania, which is the base word for today’s Solemnity of The Epiphany of the Lord. Stewardship calls us to an understanding of our Church and our faith. The Epiphany of the Lord is a vital part of our liturgical year and our Catholic tradition.

“Epiphany” literally means “becoming apparent” or “appearance.” On this day we celebrate the fact that the reality of Jesus Christ as our Lord and as the divine and human son of God becomes apparent and real to us. This manifestation, following Christmas so closely, is another reminder to us of how gifted we are. It is an additional indication to us of how essential it is for us to acknowledge our giftedness and to respond in kind through stewardship.

Many of us identify the glory and the joy of the visit of the Magi to the Christ child, and as Isaiah the prophet envisions in today’s first reading, “Then shall you be radiant at what you see; your heart shall throb and overflow, for the riches of the sea shall be emptied out before you.” And we, as St. Paul indicates in the second reading, “are copartners in the promise in Christ Jesus through the Gospel.”

St. Anthony Padua’s Dining Room:
The CCAS is committed to serving the needy and homeless at St. Anthony’s Padua Dining Room in Menlo Park. If you are interested in volunteering on Saturday, Jan. 24 from 8:30 - 1 pm or a subset thereof, please contact gary.glover@stanford.edu to discuss and/or have a volunteer position reserved for you. We serve every first and fourth Saturday of the month, so plan ahead and let Gary know at least by the preceding Wednesday. Like Mary, say “Here I am Lord”, and volunteer at St. A’s to serve others.

“You Visited Me”
There is an upcoming opportunity to become an Ombudsman, an advocate to address problems that arise in long term care or rehabilitation centers. Visit an assigned nursing home or assisted living facility, listen to the residents, investigate complaints and resolve problems. Catholic Charities provides training and the State provides certification. Our program needs new recruits especially to cover N. Santa Clara County. Orientation/information: Wednesday, January 28, 2015 from 10:00am to Noon. Training dates are listed on the Catholic Charities website www.catholiccharitiescsc.org click on the VOLUNTEER banner and then go to Volunteer Opportunities. To learn more about becoming an Ombudsman, contact: Wanda Hale at 1-408-325-5269 or email whale@catholiccharitiescscj.org. You can also be in touch with a member of the CC’S who has been doing this work for 10 years.

We praise you, we bless you, we adore you, we glorify you,
we give you thanks for your great glory,
Lord God, heavenly King, O God, almighty Father.

Darkness covers the earth and heavy clouds hang over the people. At last the light has come and the glorious radiance of the Lord shines bright from afar.

Christ by highest heav’n adored
Christ the everlasting Lord!
Late in time behold Him come
Offspring of a Virgin’s womb
Veiled in flesh the Godhead see
Hail the incarnate Deity
Pleased as man with man to dwell
Jesus, our Emmanuel
Hark! The herald angels sing
“Glory to the newborn King!”

Hail the heav’n-born Prince of Peace!
Hail the Son of Righteousness!
Light and life to all He brings
Ris’n with healing in His wings
Mill He lays His glory by
Born that man no more may die
Born to raise the sons of earth
Born to give them second birth
Hark! The herald angels sing
“Glory to the newborn King!”

Gloria

Mass From Age To Age

1. We praise you, we bless you, we adore you, we glorify you,
we give you thanks for your great glory,
Lord God, heavenly King, O God, almighty Father.

2. Lord Jesus Christ, O only Begotten Son, Lord God, Lamb of God, we adore you.

First Reading
Isaiah 60:1-6

Second Reading
Ephesians 3:2-3, 5-6

Gospel Acc.

Alleluia

Verses 3
Then shall the mountains deliver your justice;
then shall the hills be covered with peace;
then shall the harvest yield peace in abundance,
while the lights of the heavens endure.

3) All the kings of the earth shall offer him homage,
every nation and coastland shall bow at his bidding,
from the river to the ends of the earth.

4) For he shall save the least among people,
he shall be friend to those who have none.
For the nameless forgotten, his word within reach,
and his hand on the side of the poor.

5) And they shall live amid harvests of plenty.
Their grain and their fruit as grass on the earth;
and people shall sing in the midst of their feasting,
“Take heart at the name of the Lord.”

6) Blessed be God, the Lord of all ages,
whose name alone works wonders on earth:
a city of peace, both now and forever, Amen.

Verse 2
Lord God, heavenly King, O God, almighty Father.

Verse 3
You alone are the Holy One, you alone are the Lord,
you alone are the Most High, Jesus Christ,
with the Holy Spirit, in the glory of God the Father: Amen.
Apostle’s Creed

I believe in God, the Father almighty, Creator of heaven and earth, and in Jesus Christ, his only Son, our Lord, who was conceived by the Holy Spirit, born of the Virgin Mary, suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified, died and was buried; he descended into hell; on the third day he rose again from the dead; he ascended into heaven, and is seated at the right hand of God, the Father almighty; from there he will come to judge the living and the dead.

I believe in the Holy Spirit, the holy catholic Church, the communion of saints, the forgiveness of sins, the resurrection of the body, and life everlasting. Amen.

O Little Town of Bethlehem

1. O little town of Bethlehem, How still we see thee lie!
Above thy deep and dreamless sleep The silent stars go by.
Yet in thy dark streets shineth The everlasting Light;
The hopes and fears of all the years Are met in thee to-night.

2. O morning stars, together Proclaim the holy birth!
And praises sing to God the King, And peace to men on earth.
For Christ is born of Mary And gathered all above,
While mortals sleep the Angels keep Their watch of wondering love.

3. How silently, how silently, The wondrous gift is given; So God imparts to human hearts The blessings of His Heaven.
No ear may hear His coming, But in this world of sin, Where meek souls will receive Him still, The dear Christ enters in.

4. Where children pure and happy Pray to the blessed Child, Where misery cries out to Thee, Son of the Mother mild; Where Charity stands watching And Faith holds wide the door, The dark night wakes, the glory breaks, And Christmas comes once more.

5. O holy Child of Bethlehem, Descend to us, we pray! Cast out our sin and enter in, Be born in us to-day.

Gospel

Matthew 2:1-12

The magi followed the star until it stopped over a house. They entered, found the child with Mary, prostrated themselves, did him homage and gave him gifts.

1. Cold are the people, winter of life,
   We tremble in shadows this cold endless night,
   Frozen in the snow lie roses sleeping,
   Flowers that will echo the sunrise,
   Fire of hope is our only warmth,
   Weary, its flame will be dying soon.

2. Voice in the distance, call in the night,
   On wind you enfold us, you speak of the light,
   Gentle on the ear you whisper softly,
   Rumors of a dawn so embracing,
   Breathless love awaits darkened souls,
   Soon will we know of the morning.

3. Spirit among us, shine like the star,
   Your light that guides shepherds and kings from afar,
   Shimmer in the sky so empty, lonely,
   Rising in the warmth of your Son’s love,
   Star unknowing of night and day,
   Spirit we wait for your loving Son.
