(gcolombetti@yahoo.com)

fr Edward Booth reminds us that Christ is both the Shepherd and the Door to the sheepfold.

The Gospel from Saint John speaks of Our Lord not only as the Guide and Saviour in salvation, but more particularly of the unique condition of personal restoration to the true condition of man, that is 'everyman', which is a restoration of a condition once lost in a revolt against God of an historical pair of man and woman. This would seem to entail an equally historical condition of return.

The conception is a human reconstruction and, as such, would not seem to differ from the normal path of scientific reasoning, of which it would evidently be, according to a judgement which gives to it the highest value and importance amongst all of the speculative considerations which present themselves to people wishing and capable of undertaking precisely that speculation in a manner which sets itself that task in a way which is completely authentic.

But it would be expected of every such person that he would make a continuous critique of the task which he has set himself, that he would wish to make sure that he has set himself a task which must remain totally detached, that the task is not a product of human creativity. The task is totally objective, given the objectivity of what is sought. It must not be a product of subjectivity, because human subjectivity is, by definition, excluded from a grasp, a comprehension of what is ultimate. A subjective and human conception of what is objectively ultimate cannot itself be objectively ultimate.

Awareness of this problem illustrates the true dimensions of the separation from God in the initial revolt; the consequent task of restoration and recapitulation seems destined to place all men in the condition of a constant search which can have no ending.

The Gospel of Our Lord of himself as both Universal Shepherd and Doorway for all to the universal Sheepfold, to which all the sheep are to be brought for both rest and protection, does represent the Divine Initiative in which its Divine language can, through a positive revelation, expect to reach through to the human mind at its most sensitive depth and expose to it a timeless answer to its highest and most necessary question. Such a situation demands that the situation and the remedy is totally understood by the God who reveals himself, and who can himself address the man who arrives in the situation of putting his question in a language which this man can understand.

Here Our Lord asserts, as he must assert, that he is revealing the situation which is present when men, at their best, describe what is absolute as the object of a quest which imposes itself universally on every man. There is no place for a 'nicely calculated less or more' in the threshold of this question which appears to be in the revelation and discovery of a Temple Sanctuary, not the activity of the lonely scholar with his thoughts or of the scholar who places himself in a centre of a dense social net-working.

Our Lord looks out from the Heaven in which he is fully conscious of his being a changeless Ruler and Inhabitant and says that those who belong to him in this place will recognise his voice and follow him, and that there are others who have found their way there on the basis of their own talents and efforts who regard this Sanctuary enclave as open to all seekers and enquirers. But as long as these remain with their own construction and reconstruction of the Temple-Sanctuary they can never enter it. Not having the dispositions which correspond to the absolute which he reveals as its Possessor and Master, these constructors, notwithstanding their special self-pleading, will produce destruction.

There will be positive progress where not only the Message and Gospel of the Chief Shepherd will be respected, but where he himself is the entrance to the true sheepfold, intended for the rest and protection of his flock, with Himself being both Shepherd and Doorway to make up a unity; and they reveal themselves as such. The decision to accept their unity and to end the human discord from Heaven lies within the capacity of all men. This Shepherd who is also the Doorway speaks a language which is absolute, which on inspection is fully so, and which we can understand. Amen.

fr. Edward Booth is chaplain to the Franciscan Missionary Sisters of Mary in Stykkishólmur, Iceland.

REFOCCUS: Marriage Preparation & Enrichment:

June 25, 2011, 9am - 4pm. Are you civilly married, that is, married outside the Catholic Church, whether by a justice of the peace, a judge, or a minister without a dispensation from the Catholic Church? Has your marriage been “blessed” by the Catholic Church? REFOCCUS is a program designed especially for you. No, that’s not a spelling mistake! The double “C” stands for “Couple Communication.” REFOCCUS is actually a dual program, intended both for marriage enrichment and as a marriage preparation tool for couples civilly married more than two years, who are seeking a Catholic wedding. What does that mean? To have your marriage blessed by the Catholic Church requires preparation, plus the necessary paper work. Convalidation is the name of the process that validates your marriage, often referred to as “blessing” your marriage in the eyes of the Church. It allows the Catholic partner to receive Communion and the other sacraments.

Worldwide Marriage Encounter

“I Place Much Of My Hope For The Future In Marriage Encounter.” (Pope John Paul II) The Worldwide Marriage Encounter Weekend focuses entirely on the two of you and your marriage. It is a positive, simple common sense, private experience between you and your spouse, that revitalizes marriage by helping you to see again those loving qualities in each other that you may be taking for granted. The next local Catholic Worldwide Marriage Encounter Weekend is: June 10-12, 2011 (Mountain View). For more information or to register, please visit our website at: www.rekindleyourmarriage.org or contact Paul & Stephanie Francois, 408 287-3996 or Email: PaulandSteph@pacbell.net.

Volunteers Needed For Tile Painting Party Special Event!

Here’s an opportunity for Stanford Student Volunteers to assist at a one-time only Special Event! Nordstrom at Stanford Shopping Center is sponsoring a Tile Painting Party at Ronald McDonald House on Saturday, May 21, 2011. The party offers an opportunity for 200 children between the ages of 7 and 12 to paint an animal-themed tile that will be permanently installed on the Kid’s Wear Department floor in the newly remodeled Nordstrom Stanford store. A professional artist will assist the children. Cost per child is $60 and all proceeds benefit RMH Stanford with a potential of $12,000!

We need volunteers to assist with the following areas:

1. Check-in and name tags
2. Escorts to bring children to the paint room
3. Waiting area to assist with balloon artist & petting zoo
4. Packing each tile after painting so they can be transported
5. Floaters to assist where needed
